(15)    a. For Hildy, no memento is too insignificant (to discard)
        b. For Hildy, no memento is too precious (to keep)
        c. For Hildy, no memento is precious enough (to discard)
        d. For Hildy, no memento is insignificant enough (to keep)

(16)    a. Frank believes that no advice is too stupid (to doubt)
        b. Frank believes that no advice is too sound (to trust)
        c. Frank believes that no advice is sound enough (to doubt)
        d. Frank believes that no advice is stupid enough (to trust)

9.8    Experiment 7b

Conditions:

        a. Negative nominal quantifier, negative degree quantifier
        b. Positive nominal quantifier, negative degree quantifier
        c. Negative nominal quantifier, positive degree quantifier
        d. Positive nominal quantifier, positive degree quantifier

(1)     a. In Maria's class, no test is too difficult to fail
        b. In Maria's class, every test is too difficult to fail.
        c. In Maria's class, no test is easy enough to fail.
        d. In Maria's class, every test is easy enough to fail.

(2)     a. In Laura's opinion, no relationship is too volatile to fail.
        b. In Laura's opinion, all relationships are too volatile to fail.
        c. In Laura's opinion, no relationship is stable enough to fail.
        d. In Laura's opinion, all relationships are stable enough to fail.

(3)     a. According to Mark, no drug is too dangerous to ban.
        b. According to Mark, every drug is too dangerous to ban.
        c. According to Mark, no drug is safe enough to ban.
        d. According to Mark, every drug is safe enough to ban.

(4)     a. When Jack inspects the uniforms, no stain is too subtle to miss.
        b. When Jack inspects the uniforms, all stains are too subtle to miss.
        c. When Jack inspects the uniforms, no stain is obvious enough to miss.
        d. When Jack inspects the uniforms, all stains are obvious enough to miss.

(5)     a. Considering John's finances, no salary offer is too low to reject.
        b. Considering John's finances, every salary offer is too low to reject.
        c. Considering John's finances, no salary offer is high enough to reject.
        d. Considering John's finances, every salary offer is high enough to reject.

(6) a. Given Lily's relationship with her mother, no topic is too contentious to avoid.
  b. Given Lily's relationship with her mother, all topics are too contentious to avoid.
  c. Given Lily's relationship with her mother, no topic is benign enough to avoid.
  d. Given Lily's relationship with her mother, all topics are benign enough to avoid.

(7) a. For someone like Alex, no memory is too distant to forget.
  b. For someone like Alex, every memory is too distant to forget.
  c. For someone like Alex, no memory is recent enough to forget.
  d. For someone like Alex, every memory is recent enough to forget.

(8) a. With Liz's eating habits, no craving is too unhealthy to resist.
  b. With Liz's eating habits, all cravings are too unhealthy to resist.
  c. With Liz's eating habits, no craving is tempting enough to resist.
  d. With Liz's eating habits, all cravings are tempting enough to resist.

(9) a. When it comes to Sharon's friends, no event is too inconvenient to skip.
  b. When it comes to Sharon's friends, every event is too inconvenient to skip.
  c. When it comes to Sharon's friends, no event is convenient enough to skip.
  d. When it comes to Sharon's friends, every event is convenient enough to skip.

(10) a. According to the politician, no social program is too wasteful to oppose.
  b. According to the politician, all social programs are too wasteful to oppose.
  c. According to the politician, no social program is efficient enough to oppose.
  d. According to the politician, all social programs are efficient enough to oppose.

(11) a. In Sarah's opinion, no player is too slow to lose.
  b. In Sarah's opinion, every player is too slow to lose.
  c. In Sarah's opinion, no player is fast enough to lose.
  d. In Sarah's opinion, every player is fast enough to lose.

(12) a. Judging by Charlie's work, no error is too small to overlook.
  b. Judging by Charlie's work, all errors are too small to overlook.
  c. Judging by Charlie's work, no error is big enough to overlook.
  d. Judging by Charlie's work, all errors are big enough to overlook.

(13) a. Judging by John's cooking style, no ingredient is too revolting to omit.
  b. Judging by John's cooking style, every ingredient is too revolting to omit.
  c. Judging by John's cooking style, no ingredient is tasty enough to omit.
  d. Judging by John's cooking style, every ingredient is tasty enough to omit.

(14) a. For Hildy, no memento is too insignificant to discard.
  b. For Hildy, all mementos are too insignificant to discard.
  c. For Hildy, no memento is precious enough to discard.
  d. For Hildy, all mementos are precious enough to discard.

(15) a. When Lulu is talking, no sentence is too complex to misunderstand.
  b. When Lulu is talking, every sentence is too complex to misunderstand.

c. When Lulu is talking, no sentence is simple enough to misunderstand.
d. When Lulu is talking, every sentence is simple enough to misunderstand.

(16)    a. Frank believes that no advice is too stupid to doubt.
        b. Frank believes that all advice is too stupid to doubt.
        c. Frank believes that no advice is sound enough to doubt.
        d. Frank believes that all advice is sound enough to doubt.

9.9   Experiment 8

Conditions:

        a. Negative nominal quantifier, negative verb, can
        b. Negative nominal quantifier, negative verb, should,
        c. Positive nominal quantifier, negative verb, can,
        d. Positive nominal quantifier, negative verb, should,
        e. Negative nominal quantifier, positive verb, can,
        f. Negative nominal quantifier, positive verb, should,
        g. Positive nominal quantifier, positive verb, can,
        h. Positive nominal quantifier, positive verb, should

(1)     a. In Maria's class, all tests can be failed.
        b. In Maria's class, all tests should be failed.
        c. In Maria's class, no tests can be failed.
        d. In Maria's class, no tests should be failed.
        e. In Maria's class, all tests can be passed.
        f. In Maria's class, all tests should be passed.
        g. In Maria's class, no tests can be passed.
        h. In Maria's class, no tests should be passed.

(2)     a. In Laura's opinion, no relationship can fail.
        b. In Laura's opinion, no relationship should fail.
        c. In Laura's opinion, all relationships can fail.
        d. In Laura's opinion, all relationships should fail.
        e. In Laura's opinion, no relationship can endure.
        f. In Laura's opinion, no relationship should endure.
        g. In Laura's opinion, all relationships can endure.
        h. In Laura's opinion, all relationships should endure.

(3)     a. According to Mark, no drug can be banned.
        b. According to Mark, no drug should be banned.
        c. According to Mark, all drugs can be banned.
        d. According to Mark, all drugs should be banned.
        e. According to Mark, no drug can be legalized.